Help text: Types of Income

Inclusions: Do include any money received from the following:
• Scholarships
• Honoraria
• Share issues in lieu of dividends
• Money from overseas as long as it is not any of the types listed under the Exclusions section
• Home stay payments from people not living in the same household
• Support payments from people who do not live in this household

Exclusions: Do not include any money received from the following:
• Loans, including student loans
• Lump sum inheritance payments
• Sale of household or business assets
• Lottery or any other form of gambling winnings such as those from horse/grey hound racing (unless registered as a professional gambler with IRD)
• Gifts of money from other households
• Redundancy pay
• Business goodwill
• Reinvestment of profit into business
• Fringe benefits or income-in-kind like housing, goods or services supplied free by an employer
• Matrimonial, civil union or de facto property settlements
• Other one-off lump sum payments, including social welfare lump sum payments, or lump sum payments from private superannuation or life insurance policies
• Money received from members in the same household e.g. pocket money from a parent or housekeeping expenses from a flatmate.
• Tax rebates
• Boarding payments received from children living in the same household
No source of income: If a respondent did not work at any time during the 12 month recall period and lived off their savings instead, then they should select the ‘no source of income during that time’ option.

Wage and salary worker vs. self-employed: If a respondent owns a business and draws wages from the business, then they should select 11. wages, salary, commissions, bonuses etc paid by employer. If they were also receiving any profit the business makes, then they should also select 12. self-employment or business I own or work in.

Contracting: If the respondent contracts themselves out as an individual, they are considered to receive wages from an employer for the purposes of this survey. If the business is paid a fee for the contract work and they receive the profits of the business they are defined as being self-employed.

Working for a trust: If the respondent works for a trust and are the sole beneficiary of that trust, then they are classed as receiving a wage or salary from an employer and not self-employed. In this case, the trust is acting as the employer.

Supplement income from sources such as ACC: If these are regular payments that the respondent receives for things like housekeeping, lawn mowing costs etc, then please include these as income.

Other guidelines:
- If the respondent received home stay or child support payments, mark 23. other sources of income.
- If the respondent did piecework, mark 11. wages, salary, commissions, bonuses etc paid by my employer.

Help text: Amount of Income

Annual Income table (Before Tax)

The purpose of this question is to collect the total income amount, which is the sum of the amounts for all the sources selected in the previous question.

The monetary amount to be collected in this question is the gross (before tax) figure and before any commitment payments such as union fees, student loan repayments, child support or fines are taken out.

If the respondent jointly earns income with their spouse/partner, then they should only include their share of that income.

This table should be used if the respondent is not sure of the annual income before tax. If they provide a weekly or fortnightly income (after tax has been taken out of it), then their annual income can be found in the right-hand column.

Help text: Home held in a Family Trust

A family trust is a legal way to protect and hold family assets. In the context of this question, a house could be a family asset. The house is owned by a group of people, not an individual (this group of people are the nominated trustees. These may or may not be family members).

The aim of the trust is to preserve the assets (such as a house) in the interests of present and/or future family members (or nominated beneficiaries). The family trust arrangement will be set out in a legal document, usually called a trust deed.

Either the nominated beneficiary or nominated trustee of the family trust can ‘hold’ the house/flat in a family trust.

Charitable trusts should not be included, only family trusts and other types of private trusts.

Help text: Highest Secondary School Qualification

Secondary School qualifications are those that are awarded before the entry into a University. This includes qualifications gained at high school and college.

Year 13 (Form 7) is the final year of secondary education in New Zealand, and is equivalent to Year 12 in the Australian and a number of other education systems.

Guide to Secondary School Qualifications:

From 2002 - present

- Years 11 to 13/Forms 5 to 7 NCEA (National Certificate of Educational Achievement) is New Zealand’s current main national qualification for secondary school students. NCEAs are typically assessed in years 11 to 13.

2002 - 2004

- Year 13/Form 7 Students generally entered University Entrance, Bursaries and Scholarships (commonly known as Bursaries) at the end of year 13 (form 7). Students could take up to six subjects and results were used by employers and by tertiary education providers for deciding entrance and selection for tertiary courses.
- Year 12/Form 6 Schools were offered Sixth Form Certificate in 2002 and Sixth Form Certificate (Transitional) in 2003 and 2004. Most students took five or six subjects.
- Year 11/Form 5 NCEA (National Certificate of Educational Achievement) level 1 was introduced, replacing School Certificate.

1986 - 2002

- Year 13/Form 7 Students generally entered University Entrance, Bursaries and Scholarships (commonly known as Bursaries) at the end of year 13 (form 7). Students could take up to six subjects and results were used by employers and by tertiary education providers for deciding entrance and selection for tertiary courses.
- Year 12/Form 6 Sixth Form Certificate was generally taken by students in year 12 (Form 6) of school. Most students took five or six subjects. Many studied Sixth Form Certificate subjects along with School Certificate or University Bursaries subjects.
- Year 11 - 12/Form 5 - 6 Higher School Certificate was a record of the satisfactory completion of five full-time years of secondary education. Students had to study at least three subjects in advance of Sixth Form Certificate. There were no external examinations, no grades or marks, and the certificate was not awarded in individual subjects.
Year 11/Form 5 School Certificate was usually taken in year 11 (Form 5) of school, but many secondary students at other levels also entered. School Certificate was awarded in single subjects. Most students took five or six subjects.

1970 - 1986

Year 12/Form 6 There were two qualifications in Year 12 (Form 6) - University Entrance and Sixth Form Certificate. University Entrance could be gained in four or five (or in some cases, six) subjects. Sixth Form Certificate was originally developed to allow schools to provide a more comprehensive range of courses than was available from University Entrance subjects.
